

Date: 13 August 2020

Gardens and their history offer solace during COVID-19

Get a glimpse of Australia's love affair with lawn, take a tour of the Geelong Botanic Gardens and meet Nathaniel Ronalds, a nineteenth-century florist and nurseryman in Victoria. Other stories in the latest issue of Australian Garden History take readers into the garden of Hans Heysen and his family in the Adelaide Hills and beyond our shores to Norfolk Island which, as well as its convict heritage, can boast the earliest surviving agricultural landscape in Australasia.

Australian Garden History is the much-loved quarterly journal of the Australian Garden History Society (AGHS).

—ends—

For a digital copy of the journal or to arrange an interview with one of the journal's authors, contact the editor, Francesca Beddie, editor@gardenhistorysociety.org.au or 0418645181

The Australian Garden History Society promotes awareness and conservation of significant gardens and cultural landscapes through engagement, education, advocacy and activities.